EPP / GSE 300®

GSE (Grapefruit Seed Extract) is a strong and natural antibiotic. It has the characteristic of eliminating about 800 bacteria and virus strains and more than 100 types of fungi.

It is a natural alternative to the classic antibiotics that are still prescribed too often and without due consideration. Various treatments for chronic conditions can be especially harmful to our natural immune system. And it is a fact that antibiotics will eliminate the bacteria in our body. In itself this would be good, were it not that our bodies also contain a lot of "good" bacteria - more precisely, in the intestines. Classic antibiotics destroy both good and bad bacteria. In most people these "good" bacteria are already at risk from incorrect diet - mainly large intakes of sugars, bad carbohydrates and fats - as well as from stress, medication and so on. This gives the "bad" bacteria free range and a variety of disorders may then arise as a result of dysbiosis, or being "out of balance".

Why is dysbiosis a problem?

About 70-80% of our immune system is located in our intestines. Hundreds of studies have shown that people with dysbiosis are much more at risk from autoimmune diseases and from conditions such as flu, colds, infections, candida, etc. Bad bacteria also secrete toxic substances, such as LPS (Lipopolysaccharides). These enter the bloodstream through the intestinal wall and can cause, among other things, thyroid gland problems. This gland controls the body's metabolism and its working will be slowed by LPS. LPS also cause fat accumulation (obesity) and insulin resistance (diabetes).

One can protect the "good" bacteria by taking probiotics. These are available in different forms from pharmacies.
